A Hiro's Adventure To Find His Hiccup And Frost

Horsemuon17: Hey, guys! So I'm back! With another story, yay! Truth be told I wouldn't have wrote this if my friend didn't ask me to. I'm not really big about Big Hero 6, How To Train Your Dragon, and Rise of The Guardian. But she practically begged me to soooooo...Here it is! My friend also have a fanfiction and devianart account. Her fanfiction account is rockenkitty and her devianart is FrostedAngelKH. She's the one who gave me the idea so credit her too! And now, without further a due! Here's the story! By the way, Tadashi is alive 'cause he can!

>Tadashi sighed as he walked to the rest of the gang, alone. Hiro wasn't with him because he had said that he had to do something. 'Another invention.' He thought. As Tadashi neared the nerd gang, the nerd gang soon realized that Hiro wasn't with him.

"Tadashi! Where is Hiro?" Honey Lemon asked as she began looking around, also looking behind Tadashi

"He said he had to do something." Tadashi answered.

"And that something is?" Wasabi asked, clearly worried about Hiro's wellbeing like he was.

"I'm not sure. Probably another invention."

"What kind of invention?" Tadashi just shrugs, not knowing either.

"Is Baymax with him?" Honey Lemon asked.

"Yeah. He is worried about Hiro's health condition because he was excited."

"I, for one, want to know what the invention is." Gogo said.

"Why don't we go see what it is?"Fred suggested, equally excited. The rest of the nerd gang agreed and they all got into Wasabi's car.

>"This is gonna be amazing!" Hiro exclaimed as he ran around the lab. Baymax followed after him but eventually gave up since Hiro kept running from one place to the other before he got there. It has been about an hour since Tadashi left and Hiro was still running around. And everytime he stopped his heart rate would increase.

"Hiro, your heart rate is increasing. I suggest you stop running around." Baymax said as he finally catches up to Hiro when he stopped and began typing on his computer.

"No time for that Baymax!" Hiro exclaimed. "I'm almost done with the invention!" Baymax stayed silent and watched. Later he noticed a presence nearing the lab.

"Hiro, Tadashi and the others are nearing the lab. Wasabi seems to be anxious, Fred seems to be excited, Honey Lemon seems to be curious, Gogo seems to be neutral except for the fact that she is also curious. Tadashi seems to be a mixture of anxious, curious, excited, and worried."

"Perfect time! I can show them my invention!" He exclaimed, completely ignoring what Baymax said. He then proceed to open the door for the nerd gang.

>"So, what does it do?" Fred asked, looking at the invention. It was a medium-size metal box with a helmet attached to wires next to it. The wires was connected to the box and there was a slit in the front of it. On top of the box there was a portable controller and there was a red button next to the portable controller on top of the box.

"It tells us who our parents are. It can also tell us their location." Hiro explained. He tried to keep it to a minimum, Tadashi and the others could detect the sumg tone in his voice, clearly indicating that he was proud.

"Ok. So, why did you make it?" Wasabi asked.

"Well, Wasabi. I found it unfair how Tadashi knows what Mom and Dad looks like and I don't so I invented this to show me what Mom and Dad looks like." Hiro answered.

"If you wanted to know, you could have asked Aunt Cass. She has a picture." Tadashi said. Everyone stare at Hiro, wondering what he would say.

"Where's the fun in that!?" Tadashi sighed, massaging his temples. 'I just know I won't be able to rest in peace once I die.' Tadashi said. Hiro strapped the helmet to his head and pressed the red button while taking the controller into his hands. He began pressing a number of buttons before he stopped and waited. Everyone was silent except for the popping of Gogo's bubblegum as she chewed on it. Wasabi had a look of panicked but not really on his face. Honey Lemon was tempted to take out her phone and snapped a picture but advise against it. Baymax looked on without any emotions but he was secretly scanning Hiro to make sure nothing happened to him.

After a while, a piece of paper came out through the slit in the box. Tadashi went to it and teared it out as Hiro took the helmet off and put the controller back where it was.

"What does it say?!" Honey Lemon exclaimed as she tried to look at it. Tadashi gave her the paper and then looked at the ground. Honey Lemon looked at it then an odd look flew across her face. It happened for three more times as everyone looked at the paper.

"What? What's wrong? You guys are scaring me." Hiro said. He had a feeling that now wasn't the right time to joke around. They all looked at Tadashi, who nodded. Fred then gave Hiro the piece of paper. Hiro looked at it and froze. The paper said he was the son of a guy named Jack Frost and another guy Hiccup Horrendous Haddock III.

"I-I'm not r-related to Ta-tadashi!?" He exclaimed before he blacked out.
